MAUI NOTES.

Another seizure of opium has been made at Kahului, this time on board the Consuelo, by Officer Good from Honolulu. The vessel has been seized by the Government and her hatches sealed. She was partly loaded and would have sailed for San Francisco on Thursday or Friday. Now she will be detained until a bond can be executed for her release. The authorities at Kahului had searched the vessel thoroughly upon her arrival there on Sunday, but found nothing. Mr. Good arrived from Honolulu on the Likelike on Tuesday morning and going on board found in a very short time 300 tins of the drug. Finding it so quickly has led many to believe that he knew where to look for it before he came from Ho-

The trial of Huakailoa, the native policeman, who was arrested at Kahului last week for smuggling opium came off before Police Judge Kepoikai in Wailuku on Thursday last, he was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of two hundred dollars and to be imprisioned at hard labor for one year. An appeal was noted to the Supreme Court.

The long continued spell of dry weather has at last been broken and the parched earth has been refreshed with an abundance of rain. In Wailuku over two inches have fallen during the last week, and almost as much has fallen throughout the Makawao district.

There is a rumor to the effect that Grove Ranch plantation and Paia have consolidated, to take effect on the 1st of July, or after the present crop of cane has been ground. If such be the case, Paia plantation with this addition will be one of the largest on the islands.

The R. Sudden left Kahului for California on Saturday, with a full load of sugar, and Mrs. Thiele, son and daughter as passengers.

Pittsburgh Telegraph: A new baby made its appearance at Squildig's house the other day. When papa heard it cry for the first time he remarked: "Listen to its inau-guration bawi."

CAUSE FOR CONGRATULATION. The Rev. George Wallace, pastor of the second congregation of St. Andrew's Cathedral announced yesterday morning that the Easter offerings of the congregation amounted to $569.50, which was considerable in excess of what was asked for. He congratulated the congregation on the gratifying result. It may be stated that this congregation is entirely free of debt, in fact has a balance on hand.

THE JAMAICA.

The British iron bark Jamaica, Capt. C. Seibert which left Glasgow, December 24, 1888, arrived at this port on Saturday the 27th, after a voyage of 124 days. She arrived off Staten Island, February 28th, and passed off the meridian of Cape Horn, on March 3d, sixty-nine days out. On March 9th and 10th, experienced heavy squalls and gales. The Jamaica is consigned to F. A. Schaefer & Co., and brings 1060 tons of miscellaneous merchandise,

BOARD OF HEALTH.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held this morning at the office. Sister Marianne was appointed superintendent of the Boys home at Kalawao, Molokai, made vacant by the death of Father Damien.

John Akana was appointed keeper of the receiving station at Kalihi. L. L. La Pierre was appointed special agent of the Board to take charge of the odorless excavator. A new set of rules were adopted for the management of the Malulani Hospital, Maui.

A letter of condolence had been sent to the Bishop of Olba, with an expression of the Board's appreciation of the valued services of the late Father Damien. The Bishop's reply was read at the meeting. It stated that the Bishop highly valued the Board's appreciation of the deceased Father's long and faithful service. The Catholic mission would always be happy to confer with the Board in the work of humanity and of Christian charity.

THE LATE FATHER DAMIEN.

REQUIEM MASS AT THE ROMAN CATH-OLIC CATHEDRAL.

At 9 o'clock this morning there was pontifical requiem mass at the Roman Catholic Cathedral for the repose of the soul of the late Father Damien. The altars, pulpit and pillars were all draped in mourning. In the body of the church, just below the altar rail, stood a catafaloue with lighted candles on either side. On the catafalque was a priest's stole and the decoration of Knight Commander of the Royal Order of Kalakaua, which had been bestowed on the late Father. Among those occupying seats in the church were: Hen. John O. Dominis, Hen. A. S. Cleghorn, Major J. H. Wodehouse, H. B. M.'s Commissioner; Mons. d'Anglade, French Commissioner; Senhor Canavarro, Portuguese Commissioner; Mr. J. W. Robertson, Vice-Chamberlain; Mrs. Judge McCully, Mr. W. J. Harding, Chief Engineer H. B. M. S. Cormorant, and Mr. M. McInerny.

The mass was sung by the Lord Bishop of Olba, assisted by Father Clement as assistant priest, Father Sylvester, deacon, Father Raymond. sub-deacon. The St. Louis College band, under direction of Brother Francis, played the following music in excellent style: Funeral March. Beethoven; Dirge, Fallen heroes, by C. A. White; Domini Jesu Christi. Schmidt, and two dirges.

During the mass the Bishop of Olba advanced to the altar rail and spoke as follows: We are assembled for the purpose of honoring the memory of a man whose fame has been extended over the whole globe. There is perhaps not a city small or large in the civilized world where the name of Father Damien is not heard and blessed by every feeling heart. Every honest man is entitled to our respect; but there are many degrees in the merits of good men. A good Christian is justly honored by his fellow Christians; a generous benefactor is entitled to the gratitude of those who have received his benefits; a zealous propagator of the Gospel of Christ who works honestly for the salvation of souls, and who practices himself the works of charity he preaches to others, will always earn the admiration of fair minded people. Father Damien unites all these titles in an eminent degree in common with many others. But he has two more glorious titles which raise him above the rest of good men, he is a hero and a martyr of Christian charity. History offers many heroes in different directions. The most celebrated are perhaps those brave men who risked their lives on the battle field for the defense of their country with the determined resolution to conquer or to die. Father Damien seems to me to be a more glorious hero than he who falls on the battlefield sword in hand. About 34 years old, in the fulness of health and strength, he offered himself to share the fate of those unfortunate human beings, whom Providence has separated from the intercourse with their relatives and friends. He asked as a favor the permission to live in an anticipated tomb for the consolation and for the corporal and spiritual comfort of those sufferers who were there by necessity. His hierarchical superiors had only the pleasure of giving their consent to this selfsacrificing offer with their admiration of his superior merit. He not only exposed himself to the loathsome disease, but he faced the danger with a supernatural Christian indifference, perhaps with more hope than fear to fall a victim of his charity. Without doing harm to anybody he conquered like Christ by his death. After having felt during many years the symptoms of the coming disease, these last two years it had become evident that the disgusting sickness had taken hold of his body. He continued still his arduous work as long as the least ability remained, until God called him to his reward, a real martyr of his devotion to the work of Christian charity during 16 years when he had entered only into his fiftieth year. In the name of the corporation of which Father Damien was a distinguished member I thank you for the kind proof of sympathy you give us by your presence on this occasion. At the same time allow me to congratulate you, because your public tribute of honor paid to the memory of a priest whose faith may more or less differ from yours, proves that you highly appreciate Christian virtue wherever you find it.

The Bishop also spoke in Hawaiian, being considerably affected. The Very Rev. Father Leonore acted as usher, and saw that the large congregation present was comfortably seated.

THE ANDREW WELCH. The new iron bark Andrew Welch flying the Hawaiian flag arrived in port on Saturday, 63 days from Newcastle, N. S. W., with 1,335 tons of coal consigned to Messrs. C. Brewer & Co. The Andrew Welch was built by Messrs. Russell & Co. at Kingston, Port Glasgow, under the superintendence of Capt. W. H. Marston, specially for the trade be-tween Honolulu and San Francisco. Captain Marston is well known here as a former commander of the Lady Lampson. The Welch was launched August 30, 1898, and is of the following dimensions: length 195 feet; breadth 36 feet; depth 18 feet 9 in. net register tonnage 864 tons. She has fine lines and is a good sailer. A deckhouse comfortably accomodates the crew and the cook's galley. On the forecastle she carries the new style of lighthouses, and aft in the poop she has accommodation of a superior class for a limited num-ber of passengers. The master's private suite of cabins are aft in the elliptical stern of the ship, and are most completely finished. There are four staterooms-two upon either side of the saloon-with steamer style of entrances to them, and each room with two berths, besides a well upholstered lounge. The toilet arrangements are also up to the latest style. Revolving chairs are fitted along the dining table and the saloon fittings are handsomely finished in bird's-eye maple inlaid with flowers and divided into panels by fluted polished teak pilasters, floral mouldings in gilt. There is no doubt the Welch will be a favorite passenger vessel between here and the coast. The Welch left Glasgow, October 3, 1888, on her first voyage which was to Newcastle, N. S. W. During the voyage a little boy of the Captain's died of suffocation, the result of a piece of fruit sticking in his throat. A sailor fell overboard surmounted with handsomely formed but was rescued. The Welch left Newcastle for this port February 23d, and experienced variable weather. She is docked at the foot of Fort street and already a large number of people have visited her. After discharging her coal she will load sugar for San Francisco.
